Sarah:

After spending alot of time in prayer I realize I must write this letter to you.

The last thing I want to bring to your attention in this letter is that Randy and I aren't interested in your relationship with Larry Norman. If you feel you need to call Randy, thats fine with me, but when it's regarding silly gossip and rumors I think your wasting his time as well as your own. Sarah, we hear the same gossip you do, probably more, but we always tell people "we know nothing about Larry's personal life." Sarah, your relationship with Larry, past, present and future is your business. I think people come to their own conclusion concerning you and Larry. 1.) You're Randy's former wife. 2.) Larry and Randy no longer work together and are no longer on the friendliest of terms. 3.) From what I understand, you attend most of Larry's concerts and travel with him. So Sarah, what do you expect people (who want to gossip and talk) to think? I do feel however, it's totally unfair to you. You should be able to go where you want with whoever you want. But, we don't dwell in the most understanding society do we?

We will be praying for you, that you'll allow the Lord to work with you in dealing with your bitter feelings and also with the problem you seem to have handling the "rumor factory". All I can suggest is that you pray for the people who are responsible and spend time in God's Word.
